MEMPHIS APPEAL

MASONIC INTELLIGENCE

ANOTHER.

The St. Louis Freemason is resolved on finding the lowest deep, if there be any such place in falsification. In its number for April we find this case stated by the editor:

Bro. Jno. Smith is a Master Mason, R. A. Mason, R. and S. Mason, and K. T., and is also an active member of the Supreme Council at Charleston, and is a 33d and Sovereign Grand Inspector General for life. He commits a gross unmasonic crime against his Lodge and Masonry; he is expelled and appeals to the Grand Lodge, and the expulsion is confirmed. That expulsion follows through the Chapter, the Cryptic and Templar bodies, and he is cut off from all Masonic communication. Bro. John Jones, who belongs to the same bodies with Bro Smith, is also a 33d, and is prohibited from Masonic intercourse with Bro. Smith in the first four bodies. Why? Because the Grand Lodge determines Masonic life in the American system. Not so, however, in the A. and A. S. Rite. The Supreme Council does not recognize the action of the Grand Lodge on Bro. Smith's case, and his membership and control in the Council remains intact. As a Chief in Masonry, he still rules, and Bro. Jones and all the other brethren who belong to the Southern Jurisdiction are bound to recognize Bro. Smith, not only as a Mason, but as a "high Mason." Here the action of the Grand Lodge is paralyzed and rendered null and void, providing the A. and A.·. S. Rite is "Masonic."

This is one of the statements that are made because they would benefit the party who makes them, if they were true, as to which he does not know, and so makes them and takes the chances. If they turn out to be false, he can say he was mistaken. If true, then he has made a good hit.

The Editor in question hoped that what he was about to state was true. It was an excellent thing to say, if true. He had no information that it was so, and no reason to suppose it so; but it was too good a chance to make a point, for him to lose.

Well, unfortunately for him, it is not true. No such doctrine has ever been held in the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite. On the contrary, the greatest cause of discontent among the Latin brethren in Louisiana is, that we recognize the law to be just the other way. We say that if a Mason, within the jurisdiction of a Blue Lodge, is tried by it, after notice, and it having jurisdiction, and convicted of an unmasonic offence, that judgment is conclusive everywhere, on the plain ground that he agreed, on becoming a Mason that the Lodge should have a right to try him. It is the finding and judgment of a tribunal of competent jurisdiction, only reversible by appeal, and which cannot be gone behind or the matter inquired into anew, anywhere. Just so we say that a conviction by a Court, of a criminal offence, is conclusive in a Lodge, and it cannot go behind it and inquire into the facts. And so we say it ought to be the case that a conviction in a Chapter, Commandery, Council or Consistory, or any other body to which a Mason belongs, and which, because he is a member, has a right to try him, should be conclusive in a Blue Lodge, when certified there.

Any how, the Freemason has, as usual, discovered another large mare's nest. It is welcome to the eggs. Pity it should be so often—mistaken.

ANOTHER.

GEORGE FRANK GOULEY has several times positively asserted that the 28th degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite is an atheistical degree. We propose to prove that this is exactly the antipodes of the Truth.

After the person in question had concluded not to keep his obligations taken in the A. & A. Rite, and to assail it, he went to Ill.·. Bro.·. Wm. M. Lokee, and got from him the Ritual of the Degrees from the 19th to the 30th, to look over, without taking it away. Of course supposing that he deemed himself bound by his obligations, that Bro.·. permitted him to look it over. We need not characterize this mode of obtaining further information after one has concluded to denounce the Rite.

The paragraphs which we append, contain the teachings of the degree in question as to the Deity. The reader will be able to say, after reading them, what GEO. FRANK GOULEY'S repeated statement ought to be styled:

The existence of evil and suffering, at the same time that God is all-wise and perfectly beneficent; and the co-existence of His Omnipotence and Omniscience, and the moral accountability of man, have in all ages been the rocks on which philosophies and religions have made shipwreck. Whole nations have held it blasphemy to say that God is the author of Evil; and the idea is not easily dismissed, that a world not all good and always happy is imperfect and unworthy of a perfect God, unless there is to be compensation in another life.

But the Holy Writings expressly say that God has created the Evil as well as the Good; and it is for us to reconcile this and the punishment by Him of iniquity and wrong, with His All-knowledge, All-power and Infinite Beneficence. For we are conscious that in doing wrong we exercise our free will; we know that suffering is, by God's ordinance, the consequence of vice, its consequences often descending to our children; and Logic asks us if it is not true that man can do nothing contrary to the will of God?—if He did not foreknow and intend that we should do the wrong? and if so, why He should punish us?

What we term evil, therefore, was necessary, and God was compelled to create it, or not to create at all; for everything below himself must be imperfect, and imperfection is the intermingling of evil. To give bodies to human beings, bodies capable of receiving the impressions that cause pain, bodies with sensual appetites, and provoking sensual passions, it was necessary that the creature so constituted should be imperfect. To dream of perfection in the body is a simple absurdity. A millennium on earth is impossible. Pain, suffering, sickness, death, wrong, oppression, distress and evil, are absolutely necessary, in this sense, that without causing them God could not create human beings, with bodies, senses and appetites, at all.

We cannot escape the conclusion that it is impossible for man to do anything not intended by the Deity. To hold that we can contravene His will, is to deny His Omnipotence. We are thus forced to a belief in Fatality or Predestination; and yet our consciousness, which is higher evidence than Logic, and Reason, which tells us that otherwise God would be unjust, that is, would not be, concur in proving to us, our Free Will or Liberty.

My Brother, it is time that you should begin to think. Modern Science is the experimentalism of Bacon run mad. It ignores all immaterial influences and forces, and refers all cause and effect in Nature to material laws and chemical forces. The Universe is for it a machine or mechanism, created and set going by the Deity so many years ago, to be run without his further intervention, by means of these forces and laws. It is true, then, that God, after resting an eternity, created the universe and has rested ever since; that rest being immobility, non-action and stagnation! It exiles God to a distance from the universe; so that if he were to sleep, the universe would still run on, and the work of growth and generation continue unimpeded.

Religion, in direct opposition to the nonsense of modern science, represents the Deity as everywhere present, within us and without, and therefore directly and immediately acting in all the operations of nature; and yet, with singular inconsistency, it prays to him as "Our Father," that is, our Generator, "Who art in Heaven."

Inquire of your own mind, and you will admit that you habitually conceive of God as a Being at a distance, not present with and within you. You constantly replace a present Deity with the Laws of Nature and the Forces of matter.

According to Religion, God everywhere frames every minute infusorium, as carefully as the first to which he communicated life. Every leaf and every blade of grass is framed by his hand; and there is no middle ground between this and the theory of his total absence from the Universe, wherein the Laws of Nature take his place.

What then are these laws? If the Deity were to end, would they continue? Science means by that term that God has willed that certain causes shall always and invariably produce certain effects, certain combinations always produce certain results, certain consequences always follow certain acts, and certain powers and properties always belong to matter. If these could not survive the Deity, and are only maintained by His Will, then they are the determination of His Will, acting immediately and continually; and not laws enacted by Him, and afterward operative of themselves.

A law may outlive the lawgiver; the attraction of cohesion could not survive the Deity. To will and effect the result, are not successive with the Deity, but simultaneous; and, as the Kabala teaches, one is the other. The forces of Nature are the powers of God in action and manifested.

We only say that God is one and the Universe is one; that he is not remote from it, but present everywhere within it; that its Forces and his Forces, its Laws the immediate action of his Will; that the power of the Human Will is unknown and indefinite; that there are no hostile forces, but only contraries in Nature; and that, as Darkness is the Shadow, the absence and not the enemy of Light, so the Evil in the Universe is as necessary as the Good; the Suffering as the Enjoyment, Death as Life. And in terming God the Absolute Reason, we assign to him no intellectual faculty of our own; since Reason is as independent of us as Truth is.

Light, vitality and electricity, supposing the latter to include magnetism and galvanism, are the mightiest agents of the Deity known to us in nature. How far their essences are independent of each other, and distinct, we do not know. Light, at least, by the common consent of all ages and men, is the most apt symbol of the Deity Himself, and therefore we use the symbol, by means of the great light of our council, which represents the sun.

ARKANSAS.

—The APPEAL for Tuesdays and Saturdays will be found particularly adapted to Arkansas readers.

—The Des Arc Crescent has entered upon its third year, and is worthy of a long and prosperous life.

—Buffalo goats have been very fatal as well as troublesome in the neighborhood of Des Arc. The Crescent of the the 21st says: "Horses, mules, cattle and sheep have suffered severely. In a few miles of this place fifty horses and mules have been killed since the inauguration of the grass season." Every owner of horses and mules should supply himself with goat oil, and as far as he can, see that his stock is well "lubricated."

—The Des Arc Crescent says that place "seems to be losing inhabitants. The family of Mr. Rufus McPherson will leave in a few weeks for Georgia, and Mr. J. P. Weller will leave this week for Hot Springs, where he expects to go into business. He contemplates running a line of hacks from Hot Springs to Little Rock."

—It is expected that B. F. Rice, the bogus elected Senator of Arkansas, will apply part of his salary, provided he is admitted, to the extinguishment of the debt in Kentucky, incurred by gambling away his client's money, on account of which he incontinently fled that State, provided again he does not in the meantime gamble away his salary.

—Frolich, of the Searcy Record, dubs the bogus Legislature "the Fungus Putridity" or "Putrid Fungusity"—we don't remember which, but either will do—which he insists shall be "handed down to posterity" with that title.

—The dwellings of E. Lane and John Burgett, in the vicinity of Rosebud, were recently burned down in the absence of the families. Little or nothing saved.

—The Fort Smith Herald of the 18th says: We learn from Col. Lugenbeel, commander of the post of Fort Smith, that orders have been received here to hold three or four companies of the 19th Infantry in readiness to go to some point in the Indian country: Fort Gibson or Fort Arbuckle is supposed to be their destination.

—The body of a man named Wm. Marcum, was found on Lee's Creek, Crawford county, on Thursday, the 7th of April, with his head crushed by a stone. A man by the name of steel is suspected of having committed the deed, as they were last seen together. This, however, is mere surmise, as no evidence was adduced corroborating the fact. Both were men of family and respectably connected.

—The Washington Telegraph of the 15th says: On Friday night last two freedmen, named respectively James Hughes and Ben Johnson, too lazy to work and too fond of the political arena, being without the necessary nutriment to support their families, broke open the smoke-house of our fellow countryman, Capt. Mat Moss, and stole therefrom some hundred pounds of bacon.

—The Little Rock Gazette of the 22d says: The people of Arkansas are anxious that such (enterprising industrious men) should come among them, and offer every encouragement that their own impoverished means will admit. The only drawback to a rapid and healthful development of our resources, is the unsettled condition of political affairs. Peace and order is what we want. Let us have that on some honorable terms and we shall then have a basis on which to build future hopes. If negro rule is to be established, we shall expect many hardships, and hundreds of our citizens must be hopelessly ruined.

Our Advice to a Shoemaker's Apprentice.

Young man, the Bible says, "Many that are first shall be last; and the last first." Commit that to memory and consider it particularly applicable to the trade you are about to learn. A desire to learn should be "upper"-most in your mind, and, therefore, "awl" of your attention should be on your work during working hours. Always do that which "seams" right, and in all your walks of life have due regard to the welfare of your "sole." Remember that the darkest cloud has a silver "lining," and that a "stitch" in time saves nine. If troubles beset you, "peg" away to overcome them. "Pare" off the rough "edges" of your character, "lift" yourself above bar company, and "counter"-act all bad influences. In your dealings with mankind, awe-ays "toe" the mark. "Tap" all sources of information that you can. Should you marry, do not "well" your wife. Do not remain out late at night, but go home in the "s'eank" of the evening. Should you ever become a public speaker, stick closely to the "thread" of your discourse, and "wax" eloquent as you proceed. Always try to govern your temper, and never "bristle" up at trifles. Avoid attendance at "bas'n" for their influence is bad, and they are likely to get you into "scrapes." Love and cherish those dependent upon you, your neighbor as yourself, and when you breathe your "last," and your life is "closed up" and "finished," may you go to that haven of rest which is promised to the faithful.—Shoemakers' Reporter.

—Miss A. Harris, of Winston county, Miss., last year raised a bale of cotton weighing 600 pounds. The entire work of planting, cultivating, picking and ginning, was done by herself. The cotton was sold a few days ago for $192, bringing four cents a pound above the average market price, on account of its superior quality and cleanliness.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Noon Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The money resulting from the sale of the Elzee cotton, which has been in suit in the Supreme Court, and over which that Court decided it has not jurisdiction, has been ordered by the Secretary of the Treasury to be paid into the Treasury. The interest on the bonds, resulting from the sale, amounts to $380 in gold, which, together with the principal, the Secretary has ordered deposited in the Treasury. Parties claiming to own despoiled cotton intend applying to the Court of Claims for relief.

An Arkansas carpet-bag Representative sought entrance into the Senate yesterday but the door keeper refused him admittance. Arkansas traveled.

Logan and Chandler are after the Treasury Department.

LONDON, April 24.—A special dispatch from the correspondent of the Herald, in Abyssinia, dated April 23d, says the army had made a further advance, and the next day would move on the Bashelo river. The Abyssinian chieftain, Maggerata, was in the rear. He had broken peace with the British, and refuses transit through his locality for their supplies. Gen. Napier intends to punish him on his return from Magdala. The news from other sources is not as late as Gen. Napier's last dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Anna Campbell, one of the matrons of the Cumberland street Brooklyn Orphan Asylum, was required to give bail in $10,000, yesterday, before Justice Buckley, to answer to the charge of inhumanely mistreating an orphan boy by pouring muriatic acid on his person. She implicated one Dr. Hyde, and Miss Jane Davis, another matron, and warrants have been issued for their arrest.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 24.—Both parties claim a majority, but the Conservatives are very confident of defeating the Constitution and Gov. Holden.

CINCINNATI, April 23.—The Ohio Female College, six miles from this city, was destroyed by fire to-day. Loss $100,000; insured for $50,000.

THE TERRAPIN NECK TRAGEDY.

Two of the Murderers Captured—They Confess Their Guilt—Are Burned at the Stake.

A few days since we made brief mention of a terrible tragedy that had taken place near Omega Landing, La., about forty miles above Vicksburg, on the 11th inst. The particulars of the murder, arrest of two of the murderers, their confessions, and the speedy retribution that followed them, are detailed at length in the Vicksburg Times of the 22d. Deputy Marshal Resor, of Vicksburg, was sent for, and readily complied with the request to ferret out the murderers.

Taking the first boat, he proceeded to Omega Landing, within a mile or two of the Neck, and there obtained information which convinced him that the criminals had crossed over into this State in a skiff, and were making their escape in an eastwardly direction. Accompanied by Gen. Peck and Capt. Cavalier, Resor crossed into Mississippi, and by great energy and perseverance, succeeded in coming up with the fugitives on the second day. Four negroes are supposed to have been implicated in the matter. Two, who are yet at liberty, planned the murder, and the two who were burnt at the stake executed the hellish act. The two arrested were taken singly; the first one acknowledged his guilt at once, and, informing on his accomplice. From the confession made by both soon after their arrest, it would seem that Keenan, who sold wood to steamboats had been singled out as a victim several days before the plan was put into practical operation. The negroes were waiting until he disposed of, and received the money for a lot of wood he had piled out on the river bank and ready for sale. On the 11th inst, a passing boat landed, and took the wood. Keenan staid at the landing until the boat left, and then, as he was returning to his cabin, was shot with an old musket in the hands of one of the negroes. Hastily searching him, they discovered that he had no money, with the exception of a single three cent piece. Concealing his body with leaves and underbush, and infuriated at this disappointment, the demons then proceeded to Keenan's house, intent on completing their work of death. At the door of the house they met Keenan's wife, and in an imperious and threatening manner, demanded something to eat. The woman replied that there was not much in the house, but that her husband would return in the course of a few minutes, and such as it was they could have a portion. One of the negroes then remarked that she need not wait for her husband—that he would not be there—that they had "fixed him." The woman became seriously alarmed at this stage of the proceeding; feeling that she was in imminent danger attempted to seize a pistol lying on the mantel-piece. She was rudely pushed aside by one of the fiends, while the other with a blow from an axe he carried, stretched her bleeding and half-dead on the floor at their feet. Attempting to arise, another blow almost severed her head from the trunk of her body, and she fell back a second time, her head in the fire blazing on the hearth. The oldest child, a boy some ten years of age, stepped into the house at this time, and seeing the position of his mother, ran forward to extricate her from her apparently painful situation, when the axe was again raised and the boy sank beside his mother, killed at a blow. The second child, a girl some years younger than the boy, was sleeping in a bed, and being awakened by the noise began to cry and call for its mother. To treat it as they did the boy, would have been an act of mercy. They set the bed on fire, and binding the child on it, burned her alive! These are the facts of the murder. They are too revolting to dwell on a single moment longer than is positively necessary. The arresting party secured the prisoners, and on the following day, the 20th, delivered them to the proper civil authorities at Omega Landing. Having confessed their guilt, and waived an examination, Judge Noland committed them for trial and placed them in the hands of his constable, to be conveyed to the Parish seat for imprisonment. The constable took them in charge and started on his journey, but had only gotten a short distance, when a crowd of negroes overtook him, demanded, and then took forcible possession of the murderers, and building a huge fire, deliberately burnt them at the stake! Both met their fate without protest or expostulation, and were apparently convinced that they fully merited the terrible death which they finally suffered. While the burning was in progress, and thinking to prevent a continuance of such horrible scenes, Gen. Peck and Capt. Cavalier rode up to the crowd and ordered them to desist, but the negroes engaged refused to comply with the order, saying that the murderers should be burnt then and there. It is more than probable that the two negroes who are supposed to be implicated in the murder will be arrested in the course of a very few days. Assuredly, the avenging angel is sometimes swift in the work of retribution.

FAME, SUCCESS, RENOWN.

"Fame, success, renown! What are
"these worth? They are a crown of
"rotten rushes, an empty bladder blown
"by lying lips, a meed to the one who
"dupes a blind world best, a prize that
"goes to the stump-orator, to the span-
"gled mountebank, to the blatant char-
"latan, to the trained posture-maker of "political and intellectual life! What
"avail is it to labour for mankind, when
"ingrates are their elected leaders and
"accepted representatives? What
"worth to toil for liberty and tolerance,
"when the ablest trickster, the adroitest
"mimic, the cheat who can best hide the
"false ace in his sleeve, by a face of
"laughing candor and a hand of feigned
"honesty, is the one whom Humanity
"crowns."

So one wrote, not long since, to whom the world and its evil ways are well known:—and he wrote truly, although he wrote in England, and not in the United States.

If there were no other fatal consequence of the Congressional folly of reconstruction, the single one would be enough to make it incalculably mischievous, that it is to place, and is already placing, in the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, a class of low and impudent pretenders, of men without intellect or acquirements, such as never before in this country emerged into public life. From all the ten negroloid States, men are being elected to the Senate, who in a healthy time of the Republic would not have dreamed of aspiring to succeed the great men who once sat in that body. It is of no use to name this or the other man. There will probably not be one among them all, whose presence in the Senate will not be a shame to the country; some of them being men of no character except a bad one, and these who are not disreputable having neither capacity nor qualifications for the place. It will hereafter be no higher an honour to be a Senator of the United States, than a County Commissioner or Criminal Judge in Memphis.

Nor will these men who go to Washington to misrepresent the South, fit representatives of their negro constituencies only, be without companions of the same base sort from the Northern States. There the standard of qualification has been gradually sinking lower and lower, the process being greatly aided by the admission of new States, until the Senate has become an assembly of intellectual dwarfs, with a few respectable members, and not one really great man, like those that once made it the foremost body in all the world. The means by which men now become great, and possess themselves of high office, are precisely those pointed out so distinctly by the writer from whom we have quoted. It seems as if it was the fate of the Republics, always at last to come to be governed by their worst and smallest men, the certain symptom of their irremediable decadence and decay.

Office, even in very high places, is not uncommonly obtained now, by practices and devices that ought to consign those who resort to them, to the Penitentiary; and there are men in both Houses of Congress to whom the "honours" of their place ought to be a stigma and a brand of ineffaceable shame.

The race and strain of our great men has not died out; but they are not in public life. The mass of the electors prefer those who are not so far above their own level. The negroes, of course, will prefer the HUNNICUTTS and the HAWXHURSTS to the WEBSTERS, CLAYS and CALHOUNS: and the day is not far distant when the After Ones will sit in the Senate by the side of the WADES, WILSONS, SUMNERS, HOWARDS, CHANDLERS, STEWARTS, and the still baser tribe from the Southern States, and his presence be most acceptable and grateful. The truth is that it is almost impossible, now, any where in the country, to obtain office by reputable means; and a sadder truth is that there are no mean practices and dirty devices to which a candidate can resort, that injure him in the estimation of his party. CAMERON, of Pennsylvania, having bought his seat in the Senate by bribing members of the Pennsylvania Legislature, is nevertheless regarded as a perfectly honorable man. GALBA thought it no harm, when Rome had become corrupt, to purchase the imperial purple from the Prœtorian soldiery. Who should blame those, then, who buy the votes of Legislators of Pennsylvania or New York.

No power, indeed, can arrest the downward progress of a Republic; but ours will last, in form, long after it has ceased to be so in substance. The fixed habits of our people are Republican; and those who propose to rule them must do so under Republican forms. They will not venture on the experiment of a Dictator. Such men as the members of the purged Rump Parliament, of the French Convention when it had rid itself of the Moderates and Girondins, and of the shamelessly partizan body that sits at Washington, will not part with the power which it is so pleasant to them to exercise, and for which too many of them bartered conscience, shame, honour, honesty and decency, by accepting any one man, and least of all a soldier, for their master. Rotten and decayed, the Republic will stagger on, until it founders in some sudden storm, or the evils of anarchy, and misgovernment and Congressional tyranny become intolerable, and overpower the Republican instincts of the people. Then will the empire of one bring order out of confusion, and instability and insecurity will cease, and the carnival of the little, the low and the ignoble will come to an end. Until then the base will rule and the eminent and great will serve.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—At the opening of the Court the Chief Justice said the first business was the order offered yesterday by Grimes, that the hour for the meeting of the Senate hereafter shall be 12m., which was adopted by 21 to 13.

Edmonds offered an order to admit official reporters to report the speeches on the final deliberations of the Senate, which was objected to by Sumner, and went over under the rule.

Mr. Nelson then resumed his speech, and continued his argument of yesterday in support of the proposition that no officers are impeachable except those which were deemed guilty of crimes and misdemeanors by the common law at the time the Constitution was passed.

Referring to the portion of Boutwell's speech which illustrates the President's alleged perverse motive by his treatment of a gentleman who was to have been one of his counsel, Mr. Nelson said that Judge Black withdrew from the cause simply because the President refused to send vessels to seize Alta Vila, a refusal made on the grounds of a public duty and against the solicitation of friends and the implied threats of enemies. Quieting the expression of Boutwell, that the advice given to the President by his Cabinet was that of "serfs to their lord or counsel, offered in fear of losing their places," he reminded the managers that they (the counsel) had put in evidence a message which had shown that their friend (Stanton) had preferred the advice thus characterized, and that he might now cry, "Save me from my friends," if they made him out that "servile serf;" alluding briefly to the high commendations of the President, written by Stanton in 1865, and to the strangeness of the fact that the President is only now impeached for an offense against the defunct Thirty-ninth Congress.

Mr. Nelson then proceeded to consider the articles of impeachment separately. He held that in the first place, there was a distinction made by both common and statute law, between a crime and an attempt to commit a crime, and as the Civil Tenure bill relates only to actual removal from office, and as the President made none, the charges in most of the articles fail, but aside from this objection which, though technical, should still be claimed to bear weight. He would mention three propositions.

First, That the Tenure of Office bill is void, and if it is not, then that Mr. Stanton is not screened by it, and that even if it is legal and applicable, that the President is not guilty of a crime, because he acted from laudable motives.

He quoted at great length from the debates on the formation of the Constitution, and on the passage of the act of 1789, as well as from numerous legal authorities to show that the question of the President's power of removal was definitely stated by the action of Congress at that time, and claimed that therefore he had grounds for honestly forming the opinion on which he acted. From the constitutional requirements the Attorney General is to furnish the President with opinions in writing, and the fact that such opinions are collected and bound by the authority of Congress, constitute a quasi authority for the President's action. He then cited a large number of opinions by various Attorney Generals, since the formation of the Government, in which they place the same construction on the law of 1789, and express the same views regarding the power of removal as President Johnson. He referred also to the opinion of Mr. Jefferson, the action of President Jackson, and to that of the Senate in expunging its resolution of censure on him, and then recapitulating the authorities and precedents for the President's course and policy. He insisted that the presumption of honest intent was clearly made out. He then considered the position that Congress has by implication superior power to the Executive, and maintained that no greater powers were granted in that way to the Legislative than to the Executive branch of the Government. At this point the Senate took a recess for fifteen minutes, and on reassembling Mr. Nelson continued the citation of authorities in support of the President's views on the question of his power of removal, and proceeded to argue that the President had the same power to construe the acts of Congress as Congress itself. Again supporting his views by numerous quotations all the preceding argument, he held proved the Tenure-of-Office law unconstitutional and void. He then elaborated the proposition that no charge can be maintained which does not allege a criminal intent, which he said was not done except in the 5th article. In the course of his remarks he spoke of the friendly embrace of Mr. Stanton and Gen. Thomas, and the equal division of the spoonful of liquor between them, as the most remarkable exhibition of force, on record, (great laughter) and while eulogizing the honesty and simplicity of Gen. Thomas, he explained his language to Mr. Burleigh and others, as caused not only by pride of office, but by the enlivening effect of the good liquor then consumed, in the appearance of the supplemental bottle; and proceeded to give a humorous and satirical account of the interest and consequent discharge of Gen. Thomas, and ridiculing the idea that any one believed that he designed to use force. Passing on to the consideration of the second and third articles, he adopted the statements in the President's answer, he said, as a sufficient reply to them. With regard to the fourth article, which charges a conspiracy to obtain possession of the War Office, by intimidation and threats, he claimed it was not caused by the act of 1861, which, it was deemed, had been violated. The Fifth Article, alleging the intended employment of force, he held, was not supported by the testimony. The sixth, to which a violation of the tenure of office law is also alleged, had been disposed of by the Constitutional Attorney of that law. The Seventh Article was passed over with the denial that the President's oath of office was violated by the offense charged. The Eighth Article he met by the argument that the alleged endeavor to obtain possession of the monies of the War Department, even if made, was not in violation of the Civil Tenure law as stated. With reference to the Ninth Article, he held that the President was in the line of his duty when conferring with General Emory about the disposition of the forces, and that no evidence whatever had been adduced to prove that his purpose in that interview was evil.

Considering the tenth article he claimed that it was based on the principles which underlie the sedition law, which ever since its passage had stunk in the nostrils of the people. He held that the President had but followed the example of certain members of Congress in disregarding the amenities of expression, and was excusable for using strong language in reply to the abuse which had been heaped upon him.

Mr. Nelson insisted that the preservation of the right of freedom of speech was indispensable to maintain our liberties.

After a brief consideration of the eleventh article, which he said was sufficiently answered by his remarks concerning the preceding article he referred to the charges of Boutwell, that the President wished to control the elections in the Southern States, and asked how that could be possible with the officers designated by Congress, exercising control over all that region. In conclusion he reminded the Senate that confiscation has usually followed the exercise of revolutionary or unconstitutional power in the deposing of the Kings and rulers of the people, and implored them to so perform the high duties now devolving upon them, as to merit the approbation of their consciences, their countrymen and their God.

The Court and Senate adjourned.

RELIGIOUS.—Dr. Bealer, of South Carolina, will supply the pulpit of the First Baptist Church, to-morrow, at the usual hours, uncontrollable circumstances having prevented the contemplated visit of the former pastor, Rev. Mr. Miller, to the city.

PERSONAL.—Col. J. J. Andrews, of New York, arrived in the city yesterday on business connected with his real estate property here. He is sojourning at the Commercial.

THE BUFFALO GNATS.—The insect known as the Buffalo gnat has become very troublesome to the planters at this season. Mr. Asa Hodges, who resides near Marion, lost seven mules within the last few days. Gnat oil is said to be a good preventive.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—Great preparations are being made by the ladies of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, for the strawberry festival, which will be inaugurated on the fourth of May, and continue for one week. The church is sadly in need of funds, and the ladies hope by this means to relieve pressing necessities. May their noble efforts be properly rewarded.

RACES! RACES!! RACES!!!—At a called meeting of the Directors of the Memphis Association Course held yesterday evening, at the Citizens' Union Bank, it was resolved, as the stake for two year olds did not fill, that it be changed to a Shelby county purse. Said race is the first race on Monday, 27th instant, and is now opened to all horses in Shelby county. All entries will close this (Saturday) evening at 4 o'clock, at the Secretary's office, 269½ Main street. Mile heats, best two in three.

A. D. GIBSON, Secretary.

GREAT INDIAN BALL PLAY.—Fifty Indians, representing four different tribes, will give an exhibition at the race course on Saturday, 25th inst. They play their great games of raguette, and orations will be delivered from the different tribes that have been giving such general satisfaction in New Orleans. To-night, at the Greenlaw Opera House, these celebrated and well trained children of the woods will give an exhibition of their different war and peace dances, orations, etc. The ball play is to commence at 3 o'clock p.m. The exhibition at the Opera House commences at 8 o'clock.

THE MAILS.—Uncle Sam's mail train came in on time last night, bringing our handsome and clever young friend, Joe Locke, the caterer for the city in the news line, the latest and best papers and magazines published throughout the Union. We noticed the Illustrated News, Frank Leslie's great weekly, Turf, Field and Farm, Metropolitan Record, Boston Pilot, Irish American, Irish People, Irish Citizen, New York, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago and Louisville dailies, Le Bon Ton and Atlantic Monthly, besides a host of others, novels, novelettes, etc, etc., in abundance, on his counter.

DIRECT TRADE.—The direct trade movement via Norfolk is attracting the attention of business men at the other end of the land route, as well as here. Mr. Wm. A. Prince, of the house of Wm. A. Prince & Co., of Norfolk, is in this city cultivating the acquaintance of our business men and pointing out to them the many advantages offered by the new route. We have no doubt that during the coming season a great deal of the trade which has heretofore gone further North will be diverted to our more Southern sister city. Mr. Prince represents a large amount of European capital, and his house stands among the foremost of the business houses of Norfolk.

CHINA STORE.—If our friends desire to supply themselves with chinaware, crockery, silver-plated ware, house-furnishing goods, etc., we advise them to visit the house of Messrs. Eastland & Gilbert, No. 294 Main street, Clark's Marble Block. Their goods, as we chance to know, are set down to the lowest figures, consistently with their interest as merchants. They do not profess to sell below cost because such professions bear upon their face the evidence either of failure in business or of fraud. They aim to make a legitimate profit, but such an one as will permit them to live and allow their customers to live. Their business is as well established as that of any house in the city, and they propose to make such accessions to their stock as the trade of the city demands. They are established Southern merchants, who make it a rule to do business upon the principle known to our people, and with that spirit of accommodation which has been the rule in our city from time immemorial. The gentlemen connected with this firm are so well known for several years in our city, that we need not multiply words, but only recommend our citizens to call and judge for themselves.

THE COURTS.

LAW COURT—James O. Pierce, Judge. All cases regularly set for this term have been disposed of. This being motion day, no cases will be tried.

MUNICIPAL COURT—Geo. W. Waldran, Judge.—In the two cases of malicious prosecution, Nos. 567 and 570, a verdict was given yesterday in favor of the defendant. Court adjourned until 9 a.m. Monday, when the motion docket will be called.

All garnishees are notified to come into court and answer next Thursday. Writs of inquiry will also be executed on that day.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.—T. J. Latham, Register.—Meetings of creditors yesterday in the following cases: D. Kauffman & Co., David Pointer, James G. Reed, D. W. Barnett, F. S. Richards, Jacob Haight, and Robt. Branch.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

How it was Observed in Memphis.—A Quiet Sociable Reunion.

Contrary to the usual custom of our red cross banner brethren, the anniversary of their Patron Saint was not celebrated in a jubilant manner. In the present instance the quiet mode of celebration was in good taste, as the calls on the society during the past year for charitable purposes have been very large, and many of their countrymen who were in distress have been relieved. this fact staring them in the face, they did not feel warranted in making any great display preferring to reserve their funds for benevolent purposes. Having this object strictly in view, they determined to quietly install their officers and partake of an old fashioned dinner. The Society met as per appointment, at their rooms on Main street, when on motion they adjourned to the house of Mr. John Thomas in Chelsea where, with the usual ceremonies the officers for the current year were duly installed.

President, H. E. Green; first Vice-President, Thos. J. Walker; second Vice-President, R. J. Walker; Treasurer, Thos. H. Hunt; Financial Secretary, Chas. Williams; Recording Secretary, W. F. Troughton; Trustees, Joseph Gantt, Wm. Juniper and A. A. Norman; Relief Committee, John Thomas, Wm. Reynolds and W. Strong.

After the ceremonies, the company, numbering about forty persons, sat down and enjoyed a repast that we have never seen equalled since the close of the war. A huge roast was at the head of the table done to a turn with viands distributed that the most careful epicure could not have found fault with. The plum pudding, was such that only an English lady could have served up, and was done full justice to by those who were fortunate enough to be present. The President of the St. George's Society did the honors at the table, but when the cloth was removed he called the worthy treasurer, Thos. H Hunt, to the chair, when the regular toasts were proposed, as follows: "The day we celebrate." Responded to by Thos. J. Walker. Song, by Jno. Thomas. "Our Queen, God bless her." Responded to by Henry E. Green. Song, by Chas. Williams. "Our Sister Societies." Responded to by Capt. Duncan MacLean, of the St. Andrews Society. Song, by Mr. Gantt. "The Press of Memphis." Responded to by the only representative present. Song, by Mr. Juniper, after which, several volunteer toasts were drank, and joy and mirth reigned till near the dawn of day, when the party separated, feeling that it was good to have been there, and hoping for many a meeting of the same sort.

A BEAUTIFUL POEM.

How can we propitiate the spirits of the patriots who died for their country with sweeter, more precious incense on the altars of their memories, than being the medium of offering such frankincense as this?

THE BANNERLESS HOST.

BY DAVIE BARBOUR.

We flung you flowers in the sweet Spring time,
Years ago when the trumpet's swell,
Smiting the air with a battle chime,
Seemed like the voice of Israfel.

Your passionate eyes were turned to ours—
"Behold!" we cried, as we tossed you flowers,
"Behold our flag! Go prove love thine!"

Our voices were low and soft that day,
But they waxed stern as war's fiery waves!
Our hands were white as the ocean spray,
But they pointed the way to bloody graves!

The sun, that turned that morn to gold,
Beneath a dark horizon dips;
But hungry storms our eyes behold,
The apples are ashes on our lips!

And you? We crown the graves with flowers,
Where pulseless lie your hearts of dust;
No more those passionate eyes sweet ours,
Your flamingswords are turned to rust.

And kneeling thus beside you here,
Each faint, sad heart forgiveness craves,
That with our hands, as raised in prayer,
We pointed you to bloody graves.

But no! tears desecrate the sod,
That mourn the day, ye souls of flame!
With proud, imperial steps ye trod
The path to death, but not to shame!

When list'ning to the trumpet's sound,
That led you to a nobler fate—
Than thus to live, Prometheus bound,
On whom foul birds their hunger sate—

Ye went, like him of old, to die,
Of who n, each Grecian lyric shall tell,
He sank mid shouts of victory,
And cried "We triumph!" as he fell.

We linger 'neath a darker sky,
Whence light celestial all has fled.
Weep ye for us, ye ever free!
—A banderless host, we crown our Dead!

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

Weather cloudy and rain imminent. A shower yesterday evening laid the dust and did a little towards cooling the atmosphere. The river at this point is rising, but not rapidly. The swell in the past twenty four hours amounts to four and a half inches, but three and a half inches of that occurred in the twelve hours up to 8 o'clock in the morning. It is now six and three-fourths inches above the late high water, and seventeen and one-fourth inches below that of last year, and twenty and one-fourth below that of 1862. As will be seen in our telegraphic columns, the Ohio is about the same as at our last report. The Surveyor's report at Cairo for the twenty-four hours ending at dark on the 23d, is as follows: Above ordinary low water mark, 33 feet 6½ inches; below high water mark of March, 1867, 5 feet 8 inches; rise the last 24 hours, 1½ inches. The Arkansas is falling, as is also White river. We would say to our friends below in the bends that our next report will no doubt chronicle the commencement of a decline at this port.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Capt. Jim Lee has purchased from Mr. Ellerton one-half interest in the steamer Natoma, at the rate of $9000 for the whole boat. This is much below her value, but Mr. Ellerton would no doubt prefer to have given an interest to the old veteran than to have sold at a good price to any one else. She will be laid up in a few weeks for and undergo a thorough overhauling, preparatory to resuming her place in the Friar's Point trade, where she will stay—live or die, sink or swim, survive or perish.

The Indiana brought from New Orleans the stables of Messrs. Brady, Patterson and Welch. The horses of Mr. Moore went on to Louisville.

The Clifton, Capt. Stein, does not get away until to-day at 5 p.m. She lays over to await passengers who wish to attend the ceremonies at Elmwood.

The rise in the river has backed the water into Bayou Gayoso, and fish, in large numbers, are finding their way into the center of the city. Darkeys, of all ages and sexes, are catching fish to their hearts content.

The great Belle St. Louis, Capt. Zeigler, with Ad Storm at the desk, is the regular St. Louis packet to-day for that port and all way landings. She connects at Cairo with trains for all points North and East.

The Great Republic, Capt. Donaldson, leaves for New Orleans to-day at 5 p.m. Sam. Barr is clerk.

The Belle Lee, Capt. McGill, leaves for Louisville on Sunday.

The magnificent steamer Mollie Able, with the popular and careful Capt. Nat. Green on the roof, will pass up this evening for Cairo and St. Louis. S. Cook Creighton and John Langlois, are clerks. The Mollie has no superior as a passenger packet, and her officers are chief among ten thousand.

The United States mail packet Robicon, Capt. Wm. Blake, with Alf. Grissom in the office, passes down at 5 p.m. to-day for Vicksburg and all way points.

The Celeste, Capt. Pritchard, leaves on Monday for the Arkansas river.

The splendid United States mail packet Liberty, Capt. John B. Davis, leaves as usual, to-day for every landing on White river to Jacksport. She makes close connection with special trains to Little Rock. Fare by this route has been reduced from $15 to $10 to Little Rock. Milt Harry and Charley Sharps are secretaries.

A. S. Mansfield, formerly of the First National Bank of New Orleans and part owner of the E. Lee and other boats on the Mississiph, was arrested in that city a day or two ago, by order of U. S. Commissioner Weller, on a charge of complicity in burning the steamer Shooting Star, on which $100,000 insurance was collected.

A few days ago the "spirits" commanded an old man to embark at Charlotte, on Lake Ontario, for Oswego, in a small and rickety boat. The boat came ashore a day or two later minus its occupant.

There are eight boats in the Memphis and Arkansas Packet Line: The Gleaner, Capt. Blaisdell; Centralia, W. B. Nowland; Celeste, Reese Pritchard; W. A. Caldwell, R. L. Haines; Ozark, W. T. Berry; American, E. C. Morton; Fort Smith, James Bowlen; and Van Buren, Eugene Smith.

The Tahlequah struck a snag just below Fort Smith on the Arkansas river on the 17th inst., and broke several timbers. She shipped some water and entered protest at Fort Smith. She arrived at Little Rock on her return trip.

The Mary Erwin, we learn by a dispatch to Mart Wall, left Little Rock yesterday at noon for this port.

Hubbs, Patrick & Co.'s wharfboat at Evansville, was burned on the 22d by the explosion of a coal oil lamp. The cargo box, with ten hundred and fifty sacks of corn, 200 sacks of wheat, 20 barrels of whisky and some miscellaneous freight, and 116 bales of hay, on the wharf, were burned. Mr. Hubbs was slightly burned. The boat was insured for $8,000.

The Diana left St. Louis for the Arkansas on Thursday evening.

The Commonwealth is now at the St. Louis wharf, looking very elegant in her new dress. She formerly had but three boilers, she has now six of a smaller size, and admitting of a heavier pressure of steam—thirty pounds per inch additional. She is therefore greatly a better boat than previously. She has been docked, repainted, refitted generally, and delights the hearts of her friends.

There are twenty-two bidders for contracts, in whole or in part, upon the improvement of the Desmoines rapids in the Mississippi river.

The shipping merchants of St. Louis contemplate memorializing Congress to open Bayou Manchac, which was closed by Gen. Jackson in the war of 1812. It is estimated that a quarter of a million dollars will accomplish this work. If this were done steamers navigating the Mississippi could go to Mobile and any point on the Alabama river.

A strong party is now organizing in St. Louis in connection with a party in Liverpool, to ship grain in bulk to the latter point, and open up a direct import trade between the two cities. The first shipment of wheat in bulk left the former place on the 22d. The lot consists of 25,000 bushels of spring wheat, costing $2 05 per bushel; freight thirty cents, transfer, handling, trimming, etc., at New Orleans and storage at New York included.

The Joint resolution of the Tennessee Legislature in relation to the navigation of the Tennessee river, was introduced into the House of Representatives, on the 20th inst., by Mr. Maynard, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Our Latest Improved
NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.
GROVESTEEN & CO.,
499 Broadway, N. Y.,

THESE instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy, during the thirty-six years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest price. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to three hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.

The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar Sweetness and Great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retaining its positiveness, does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mingling with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equally delightful to the unpractised and to the most cultivated ear.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four pilasters or corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep6 d&wly

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

AN INTERESTING POEM.

Our "Poets' Corner" is occupied this morning with a poem of more than ordinary interest, which came to us from Vicksburg, through the hands of a friend. When once the reader has perused a dozen lines, it will not be necessary to urge him to progress to the end. The moral is excellent, and there is more of pathos than poetry in the narrative, that can scarcely fail to touch the heart. The picture, if strong, has been brought home to many a Southern hearthstone, and may elicit sympathy among our Northern brethren, who have not realized the crushing weight with which the war for Radical supremacy fell upon our homes and people.

For the Memphis Appeal.]

THE PRUDENT RECORD.

BY SERIOUS X WILKINS.
mark.

Respectfully dedicated to the "Fanny Thurston Society" of Memphis, Tenn.

In comfortable quarters seated one cold winter's night,
Two veteran soldiers were, their fire with blazing faggots bright;
On the table there between them, was spread their evening lunch,
Which daintily they nibbled, while they sipped their cups of punch.
They were two butter'd veterans, rough remnants of the wars,
With military records that were written out in scars
Engraved deep in their faces. The night was "New Year's Eve"—
There were three legs in the party, and a single "empty sleeve."—
They were smoking soon, and chatting too, as boon companions may,
Of times long past, but not forgot, in an old soldier way;
They called each other "Bob" and "Joe," nor rec'd the rank they bore—
'Twas nought to them the straps and stars their shoulders brord once wore,
They talk'd about the war that's past, the fearful sights they'd seen,
The laurels each had won, and all the fights in which they'd been.

"Tell me, old Joe," said Bob at last, "the best thing you have done—
Your proudest recollection of all your life that's gone?"

"It is not, Bob, as you may think, an easy thing to tell
What I have done that is best, when we have done so few things well!
But memory does n't always wish on tragic stage to brood,
Nor does she like her pictures dabbled o'er and o'er with blood.
When in our lonely hours we take a retrospect of life,
We hasten by those passages enstained with brutal strife,
Which the world lauds as truly great, and flatters us with glory—
Fill up your glass and listen, Bob, while I relate a story:

"It was just after war was o'er, on a cold, stormy night,
I sat musing in my quarters, while the warm and quivering light
Cast its shadows on the roughly plaster'd walls
As if grotesquely laughing at the tempest wild without—
My just-doff'd habiliments, piled loosely in a chair,
With myself upon another, and my feet high in the air,
Smoking my pipe luxuriously (the meerschaum that Jack Moore
Gave me—Bless Jack! You knew him, Bob? he fell at Grande Ecore!)
I was waiting there impatiently to get my evening lunch,
While old Aunt Dinah bluster'd round with Ethiopic zeal,
Storming at 'lother darkeys, who, with'n her sable view,
Was de no accountest n'ggahs dar dat she done ebber knew.
But aided by her busy hands and her preserving bias,
The meal was soon all ready, and the supper laid at last.

"I started for the mess-room, and had cross'd, say, half the floor,
When I heard a hesitating rap outside upon my door.
'Who's that?' I asked abruptly, in a surly voice I own,— (I'm naturally cross, old Bob, not what you'd call a horpitable tone!)
'Come in, I say!' Can't you come in? Can't you see I'm busy now?'
'I can't,' replied a timid voice, 'my fingers are so cold
I turn the knob, and looked without into the night and storm,
And shrinking, shivering, there beheld a dripping, pitiful form.
A sad-faced little girl—a face where poignant grief, not years,
Had given its mute and wither'd look, while from her eyes the tears,
Mocking the big, cold rain-drops, were creeping o'er her cheek.
Silent I stood a moment, waiting for her to speak:
She, too, stood still, upon the three-fold there, perhaps a minute,
Gazing with fix'd eyes on her basket that had nothing in it!
She seem'd to hesitate as though e'en hope was somewhat fearful,
Like one unused to kindness, while her drooping eyes still tearful,
Sought with such anxious look my own, imploring, as I said,
That I'd have given her then the last 'hard tack' I ever had.

"'Come in, my dear child,' then quoth I, 'come in, and by the fire
Inform me as you warm yourself, what it's that you'd sire?'
She glided to the fire-side then, and took the chair
And held up to the cheerful blaze her poor, half-frozen feet—
Those feet so bare of hose and stockingless, and blue, and pinch'd with cold,
And like her draggled dress all stained with that gown so tatter'd, torn and worn, and vainly lengthened out
With old flounces, hand-me-downs, and patch'd and darn'd about!
A faded handkerchief confined a mass of unkempt, tangled hair,
Which would have fallen in ringlets, with half a hand of care:
Her eyes as of that liquid hue which artists love to paint
In their ideal portraitures of some sad, sorrowing saint:
In fine, her timid gracefulness, her gentle, modest ways,
Betray'd at once that she had known other and better days.

"When by the cheerful blaze she'd warm'd her trembling, half-clad form,
I ask'd what could have brought her forth in such a night of storm?
I cannot, will not, said she, blushingly, and hanging low her head—
'I came to see if I could get a little piece of bread:
But oh! I cannot tell you, sir, how much I hate to beg—
But mother is so sick, just now, and Tom has lost his leg—
He had a leg at Dallas—he was a soldier then, For then they took most of the boys, as well as all the men.
We did all that we could, sir, and tried to win the fight—
We gave our country all we had, be leving my father died a soldier—a Confederate soldier, too,
And that is why I fear'd, sir, to ask for bread from you.
But we are now so very poor—we've neither And we've not had for two days, now, a single crust to eat.
We used to have a plenty, and horses, too, to ride,
And servants, and the nicest home, and all we would decide;
But we have had to sell them all—they've all gone, one by one—
Our home, the stock—aye, everything we once had, now is gone!
We had to sell our dresses too, for anything they'd bring,
And last week—ah! 'twas hard to sell—dear mama's wedding ring!"

"'Tis long since, Bob, you've seen the tears upon my lion cheek,
But that my eyes ran over then, nor did I think it weak;
For if you'd seen her pallid face, and heard her Foregone your manhood, then your eyes could not their tears forego.

"Before, I was so hungry I could have gnawed a bone;
But now it was all over, and my appetite was gone!
Just then my sable Dinah I heard begin to scold.
And ask, 'what for de massa let de supper done got cold?'
So I led the little wanderer out to the table, where
In bountiful confusion lay our usual soldier fare:
And sate her down beside it in my accustom'd seat,
And, Bob, it did good to my soul to see that poor child eat!
Coffee, cold ham and batter-cakes vanish'd fast all recall—
I wondered where so small a child could have bestowed it all!
The child herself seem'd mortified, and said, 'if I but could,
I'd eat less, but I am so hungry, and this is so good!'
When hunger was appeas'd, and she had drawn back from her chair,
And held before the glowing health her little feet so bare,
It brought to mind a little one—one just about her size,
With just such brown and curly hair, and tender, loving eyes—
And then I thought that just such fate might overtake my own,
And on my heart there press'd a weight as heavy as a stone
Though kindlier feelings may with us be deem'd short of rarity,
Tain't true, is't, Bob? We're apt to loan, like others, 'out of charity.'
Just so, I felt a debt was due to this poor child of sorrow,
Which, po sibly, some one might pay even to my own, to-morrow.
Such thoughts will come, though unawares; perhaps 'tis for our good—
They're angel fingers blotting out the record of that blood!

Rested and fed, the way-worn child arose as if to go,
When thoughts of those at home brought back those weary looks of woe.

I fill'd the empty basket th re—(these mee eyed looks appeal
Would wake compassion in the sternest, hardest hearts of steel)—
With what my scanty store and sympathising thoughts might deem
Most suitable for barques so toss'd on Penury's dark stream.
I sent, too, "Bob," my darkey, with a sack of meal and meat,
And other things I fancied then the hungry ones could eat
Besides, I gave her something, too, to shield her tid-ied form,
And save her bruis'd and bleeding feet from winter's sleet and storm.
What then I gave—it was not much—but never mind the amount,—
Perhaps it will be credited upon my loose account,
And help my "final papers" through, which, much I fear, without
Something of the kind, won't pass,' when I'm last muster'd out.'
I led her to the door-way and kiss'd her there good-bye:'
'God bless you,' was her earnest prayer, and tears well'd in her eye.
Although I wear the uniform—the National old Blue—
And fought against her father the cruel war all through,
Yet the prudest recollection of my life, now nearly sped,
Is of the kindness then I show'd the child of him that's dead!
I'll ne'er forget that winter's night, tempestuous and wild,
Or the 'God bless you' thankfulness of the dead rebel's child."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, April 24, 1868.

The Money market is quiet. Exchange has not varied so far as buying and selling rates are concerned for some days, but the offerings diminish, daily, until they now amount to a mere bagatelle. It is true the inquiry is light, but it is in excess of the supply, and daily shipments of currency are made to meet drafts. The New York market for the week has been marked by continued stringency, the remittances not coming near up to what they were in the corresponding week last year.

Gold opened in New York at 139¾, and closed at 139¾. The decline may be attributed to the sales by Government, which have been heavy for some days back, and will continue to be heavy while there is any remaining in the Treasury. It is part of the impeachment scheme to keep gold down. It will be done, if possible, and at a loss to the Government of millions of dollars. Had it not been for this course pursued by the Treasury Department, the premium today would have been not less than 175 or 180. We understand that several millions have been purchased by the Government and re-sold again at a less to keep down the premium.

City Scrip is steady with buyers anxious at 65c, and holders asking 66 to 67c for large pieces. Small ones are in better demand at 2 to 3c higher.

County Warrants are quiet, with fair demand, at 58 to 60c buying. Selling at 60 to 62c.

Police Scrip is in moderate demand at 83 to 84c buying; selling at 88 to 90c, as to amount.

Cotton was buoyant and advancing in Liverpool at the opening to-day—uplands 12¾d; Orleans 12¾d. At 1 p.m the state of the market was not given, but prices had advanced ¼d—uplands 12¾d; Orleans 12¾d; uplands to arrive 13d. At the close the market was active and prices the same. Sales for the day 20,000 bales; week's sales 83,000; for export 25,000; to speculators 9000; stock 486,000, of which 321,000 is American. Stock afloat 341,000, of this amount 90,000 is American.

In New York holders were asking an advance, but buyers were operating with caution. At noon the demand was fair and prices higher—nominally low middlings 31½c; middlings 32½c; good middlings and Orleans 33½c. The market closed firm with fair demand at unchanged rates.

Our market was very firm with holders asking within 1c of New York rates, but no buyers except a few factors having regular weekly orders to fill. They only buy a few bales here and there and at irregular figures. Our readers will get as good an idea of prices ruling here by taking 1c off New York rates as we can give them.
